CONSTRUCTION IS COMING TO NICOLLET AVENUE
Share Your Thoughts about the Future of Our Community Corridor!

This spring the Nicollet Avenue Construction Steering Committee was organized by the Lyndale and Kingfield Neighborhood Associations in partnership with the City of Minneapolis. With construction coming to Nicollet Avenue in 2012, the committee was formed to ensure that the community is involved in the design and planning processes, by soliciting and organizing input from community members, property owners, business owners and managers, and other users of the Nicollet corridor. The Steering Committee will strive to be honest brokers and managers, and other users of the Nicollet corridor.

MLK Dog Park Proposal Makes Progress
On May 5, 2010, the Minneapolis Park and Recreation Board of Commissioners approved the Kingfield Dog Park project concept and referred it to committee for further development!

A group of Kingfield resident leaders, now officially a task force of KFNA, brought forward the proposal for a potential off-leash area in MLK Park. This part of the city has the second highest density of licensed dogs, but is the only district with no off-leash areas. The Kingfield Neighborhood Association supports this project because the board believes an off-leash area in MLK Park will do the following:

• Increase community interaction between residents
• Bring new visitors to MLK Park from several surrounding neighborhoods
• Add an amenity to an otherwise underutilized section of the park
• Improve safety in the neighborhood and park
• Encourage enjoyment of green spaces throughout the year
• Invite new patronage of local businesses and community resources

Mobile Drug Dealing: Has it Come to Your Block?
Summer is the season of front porches and backyard gardening... and sometimes for noticing mobile drug dealing right out on our blocks! Mobile drug dealing is the sale of narcotics between individuals in vehicles—in cars, on bikes, or even on brides. A cell phone is usually used as a tool to set up the meeting at a specified location.

Look for these suspicious behaviors that may be signs of mobile drug dealing:
• Continuous car or foot traffic around the block; or back and forth on the same route multiple times
• The same vehicle meeting up with many different vehicles for short meetings
• Strange vehicles from out of the area
• Brief meetings
• Hand-to-hand transactions and/or transactions through car windows
• Cell phone usage and then meeting someone
• Headlight or brake light flashing
• Hand signaling (waving off the meeting)
• Someone taking or placing objects in odd places
• Observation of drug packaging materials, passing of money or other goods

JKFNA STAFF
Executive Director: Sarah Limes-Robinson... 612.823.5985

This is my first column since KFNA’s Annual Meeting in April and the election of new board members at that meeting. I would like to both congratulate and thank our new members: Bret Kalma, Rachel Brond, Randy Niemiec, Tamera Eitzen, Brook Lemm-Tabor; and also Mark Brandow, who rejoined for another two-year term. Although KFNA is an institution with a long history, it is largely defined by the board and staff serving KFNA at any given point in time. We are fortunate to have an Executive Director, Sarah Limes-Robinson, who has been with KFNA for 14 years and adds valuable institutional memory to the organization. But as you can see, almost half of our board is new.

The KFNA board typically attracts those interested in getting involved with the neighborhood association via a variety of personal interests: an interest in Kingfield businesses, for example, or school choice issues, or advocating for a neighborhood dog park. But although individual board members have different interests and passions as they relate to the community, the work and responsibility of the board is to come together to help the neighborhood move forward together.

The 13 volunteer KFNA board members are committed to the betterment of Kingfield in all respects, whether that means working to reduce crime, beautifying the neighborhood through public art, providing exciting opportunities for the youth of Kingfield, or tackling new issues that may come up. The board has engaged in a number of activities to address problems or take on projects to make Kingfield a more livable and vibrant neighborhood, and I am proud of the energy and passion I have seen at KFNA since I have been on the board. Thanks again to the new board members, and I look forward to working with the whole board throughout the next year.

—Chris Sore, KFNA President

Calling all Kingfield Leaders!
The most important thing we do to keep Kingfield a safe and interesting place to live is to get to know our neighbors. Fortunately, we’re pretty good at that! National Night Out parties, unique block traditions like roving happy hours, the Farmers’ Market, joining efforts to deal with crime — there are so many great ways that Kingfield neighbors come together and get connected. And behind each one are the neighbors who volunteer, take the lead, call the meeting, send the email, deliver the flyers... These are the block leaders and community builders who are the lifeblood of a strong neighborhood. The KFNA Crime Prevention and Safety Committee (CPS) is focusing its efforts on identifying, supporting, and strengthening the network of formal and informal block leaders who keep the 100 blocks of Kingfield connected.

CPS block leaders are working to identify existing or prospective leaders or contacts on each block in Kingfield. They hope to connect block leaders to available resources, find out what other information or support block leaders could use, and create ways for block leaders to share ideas and experiences with each other. A Block leader social recently hosted by CPS in May was a great example—a sharing of homemade desserts and homegrown ideas for building community on the block. If you missed this one, be sure to look for another Block Leader Social this fall!

Join Your Neighbors and Start Saving Money! Join the residents of more than 300 Kingfield homes who are already saving energy and money! The Kingfield Neighborhood Association is excited to again offer Community Energy Services, a partnership with the Center for Energy and Environment, Control4 Energy, and Xcel Energy, with funding provided by the MN Environment and Natural Resources Trust Fund.

As participants of Community Energy Services, homeowners are invited to a free educational workshop where they will receive energy-saving tips and schedule a customized home visit from CES’s energy experts. At the visit to your home, two CEEC employees will perform a blower door test to measure your home for air leaks, and install energy-saving materials as needed, which may include compact fluorescent light bulbs, low-flow shower heads, an energy-efficient attic wrap, or a programmable thermostat. The home visit takes about an hour and a half, is worth up to $400 in services and materials, and is available for a co-pay of only $30. What’s more, the Kingfield Neighborhood Association will reimburse the co-pay of every homeowner who participates, making this $400 value absolutely FREE! Participants will also receive information on financing, rebates, and incentives for energy-saving appliances and projects.

The workshop will be held on Thursday, June 24th, at 6:30 p.m. at McCrae Park (906 E. 47th St.), Contact Ashley Robertson at 612-335-5869 or aroberston@mncee.org.

HISTORY
In January 2009, as a result of a new Restorative Justice initiative in the neighborhood, a group of three Kingfield residents who had been cited for having dogs off-leash in MLK Park approached the KFNA Board about creating a dog park in the neighborhood. These residents surveyed neighbors near the park door to door, and found that most were supportive, and none were opposed to the idea of an off-leash area at MLK Park. They also completed an online survey provided by KFNA at that time received over 300 responses in a few weeks, most in favor of the idea. It was determined that the group would continue their research.

The Kingfield Dog Park organizing team grew through the spring and summer of 2009. The team toured MLK Park and mapped and photographed some potential sites. They then used the Farmers’ Market and community events to gather input and gauge support. The team organized and led a community forum in October 2009 to share their ideas and gather feedback. More than 300 neighbors attended.

CURRENT PROPOSAL
The Dog Park Task Force developed a plan that responds to many of the concerns expressed by officials and resi- dents of the proposed site totaling about 1.1 acres in area, and was situated along the east side of MLK Park, making use of a currently unused piece of land bordered by the MLK Park sound wall. The design includes two dog area's, one for small dogs only, and multiple entrances/ exits from different sides. The Park Board, after reviewing the proposal, asked the group to consider the northwest corner of the park for the All-Dog area, so the group is drafting a plan for that area as also an alternative site. Whenever proposal is determined to be best fit in with the current parks use and also serve dog owners will be brought forward to the public comments in a public meeting.

OUTREACH AND COMMUNITY ORGANIZING
The Task Force continues to actively and creatively spread the word about the MLK Park Dog Park, and is regularly out walking the streets wearing Kingfield Dog Park T-Shirts, talking to people they encounter. Ways you can help bring an off-leash area to MLK Park:

• Look for park commissioners in support—you can find their names and emails at www.minneapolisparks.org/default.asp?Page=8
• Become a friend of the Kingfield Dog Park on Facebook
• Donate to KFNA, get a Dog Park T-shirt, wear it everywhere!
• Come to Tappy Hour on June 19 at Eau Barber!
• Look for more ideas online at www.kingfield.org/ dog-park

ALSO: The Dog Park Task Force is collecting photos of dogs with their human families — send one jpeg per family to dogpark@kingfield.org. We believe that the diversity of our dog-owning community (in race, age, marital status, etc.) will be a strength for this park. Please label your photo with your dog’s name first (e.g. Rex and Family) and send your photo today! Please know that by submitting this photo you are granting permission for KFNA to use it on our print and web-based promotional materials.

Walking the Walk to Lyndale Community School
A group of Kingfield families started a “walking school bus” to Lyndale Community School this past fall and walked together every day throughout winter. The parent- and grandparent-led group included 10 students. This spring, in an effort to encourage more students to walk, three additional meetings were added on Tuesdays and Thursdays. More than 80 students from Kingfield and other neighborhoods have joined the walking buses.

Families who will be new to Lyndale School next year and want more information on the walking buses, or Kingfield residents interested in volunteering as crossing guards, please contact Lyndale Community School Parent/Kingfield Resident Scott Burden at 612.827.1868, or scottburden@hotmail.com.

A Swifter and Safer Bike Ride to Downtown
In March, the Kingfield and Lyndale Neighborhood Associations hosted a community meeting in partnership with Minneapolis Public Works to discuss the proposed addition of bike lanes along 1st Avenue and Blaisdell Avenue.

Based upon public feedback to their proposed plan, the City has modified their original proposal and now intends to leave the parking as is on 1st Avenue between 29th and 33rd Streets. Additionally, they intend to install a 7-foot bike lane along the eastern edge of the roadway, with a 4- or 5-foot buffer zone between it and the proposed single travel lane for cars. Public Works believes that reducing the automobile travel to one lane will reduce the speed of the traffic, and the buffer zone will further protect bicyclists. When parking is allowed in the eastern bike lane on weekends, largely to accommodate car traffic to the Reid-Sweeten Tennis Center and the number of multi-family homes in the area, the buffer zone will be reduced to 3 feet to better accommodate the needs of bicyclists.

On Blaisdell the proposal was not modified from the original plan, which calls for the addition of a striped bike lane while the driving and parking lanes would not change. The entire project, to be paid for by federal transportation funding, will cost $150,000.

In reviewing the project, KFNA provided the following feedback: “Blaisdell and 1st Avenues are important to the Kingfield neighborhood for two very different reasons: they are routes for auto traffic to move to and from the neighborhood and, more importantly, they are home to many Kingfield families. The current design of the avenues favors automobiles, resulting in traffic speeds that are too high, poor conditions for bicyclists, and an unsatisfactory pedestrian environment. A better balance needs to be struck between the many users of these streets.

KFNA believes that the proposed addition of bike lanes on Blaisdell and 1st is a good first step to make these routes more bicycle and pedestrian friendly. Bike lanes will reduce the existing lane widths in many places, the existing width of which is a contributor to the problem of excessive vehicle speeds. Bike lanes will increase drivers’ awareness of other roadway users, which hopefully will cause the average driver to have more awareness of the residential surroundings and adjust his or her driving accordingly.”

Nicollet Square Update

Nicollet Square, a mixed-use housing and commercial development on the corner of 47th Street and Nicollet Ave. S., is well under construction. As previously reported in Kingfield News, Nicollet Square will be home to 42 young adults with a 247 front desk, on-site support provided by Youthlink, and a corner retail store as part of an on-site workforce development program for the young adult tenants. Plymouth Church Neighborhood Foundation (PCNF), the project developer, and KFNA have created a Community Benefits Agreement as a way to communicate and work together as Nicollet Square becomes an active member of the Kingfield neighborhood.

In December 2009, it was standing room only as public officials and community members gathered in a lighted tent for the ceremonial groundbreaking event. Construction on Nicollet Square began in early March, and is slated to finish in July 2011. For further information, please call Jill Garcia from PCNF at (612) 871-0800.
